Location Quotients measure the concentration of regional employment as compared to the nation. The Twin Cities area is defined as the 7-county region.