Question
How do we assess Block G for improvements to Avenue R AND allow for future assessment to Block G for similar improvements to streets A & B and Avenue Q, to be done at a later date?

Answer
By bisecting the angle at each street corner, we can create non-overlapping areas of influence to determine project assessments.

This method does not penalize corner properties and also fairly assesses properties with unusually short or long street frontages.